

Shri Mangubhai Patel

It is heartening that the Madhya Pradesh University of Medical Sciences, Jabalpur, has created a website that represents a commendable effort towards quality education, research, and social service in various aspects of medicine. Medical service is a noble endeavor for the welfare of suffering humanity. It is not a profession but a soulful expression of human compassion and service. The objective of medical science is to work for the welfare of all humanity with an integrated approach of compassion, service, and scientific thinking, along with the treatment of diseases. The initiative to provide a platform for the university's quality modern medical education and research services through the website is commendable. It is hoped that the university's website will become an effective platform for expanding education in accordance with the National Education Policy. Best wishes,