Dear friends,

It is a matter of great honor and responsibility for me to serve as the Vice Chancellor of Madhya Pradesh Medical University, Jabalpur. This university is committed to promoting quality, innovation, and service in the fields of medical, dental, AYUSH, nursing, and paramedical education in the state. I have had the opportunity to work with the Dental Council of India, the National Medical Commission, and various universities for nearly three decades. Using this experience, we are continuously striving to establish a strong identity for the university at the national and international levels. Our goal is to provide quality education to students and prepare them to become skilled, sensitive, and ethical health workers. We also instill in them a sense of nationalism and a spirit of service. We are also committed to creating an enabling and inspiring environment to promote research and innovation. A key innovation is the mission of providing medical education in the local language, making it the first university in the country to do so. We are confident that with your support and commitment, we will take this university to new heights of excellence.

Thank you.
